

Contents

Introduction: Walking Is Talking	I
1 In the Beginning Was the Foot: Walking from the Origins of Bipedal Humanity to Marching Roman Legions	19
2 Along the Road: Medieval Pilgrims, Beggars, Mounted Warriors, and the Early City Walkers	42
3 Put Your Best Foot Forward: The Rise of Upper-Class Promenading and Strolling	71
4 Mind over Foot: Romantic Walking and Rambling	101
5 North American Walking: Exploring the Continent on Foot	125
6 City Walking: The Genesis of the Urban Pedestrian in Nineteenth-Century London	153
7 A New Footing for the Nation: Taming and Cleaning Up Revolutionary Paris	179
8 Getting in Step: Disciplining the Mob and Marching the Masses Off to War	203

9	Wheels and Cars:
	The Eclipse of the American Walker by the Motorist	229
	Conclusion: Choose Your Steps—Reflections on the Transformation of Walking from Necessity to Choice	255
	Notes	279
	Acknowledgments	319
	Index	323
	About the Author	333